GREAT NEWS!!

The editors of the National Intelligencer vouch for the genuineness of the Extra from which the following is copied, for a copy of which they are indebted to the politeness of T. W Bacot, Esq. Postmaster, of Charleston. Charleston Gazette Office,

May 26, 11 o'clock A. M. THE TABLES TURNED. Extract of a letter from PARIS, to a gentleman in this city, dated "April 8th, 1814.

" As a vessel is on the point of departing from Bordeaux to the United States of America, I hasten to inform of the late great and splendid victory which his majesty the emperor, has gained. We have beheld enter our capital, the emperors of Germany and Russia, and the king of Prussia-as prisoners of war-together with all their suite composed of 20,000 men, among whom are a great many officers of distinction .-Since the 14th of February last to the present day, the emperor has been heaping laurels on his head. Of all the barbarous enemies that have entered France, I trust that not one may return to tell of their defeat or of our victory. Our young men of the military schools, can hardly be restrained from going out to meet their foes. If you were to see them you would imagine they were veterans.

The thirteen strong places which the enemy have left in their rear, have been doubly garrisoned and an army of 64,000 men will cut off their retreat. The army of the brave Angereau who is near Lyons, is marching rapidly towards them. They will soon find themselves surrounded by 160,000 men-all that France possesses, in choice troops. The Hotel des Invalides has been adorned with above one hundred standards of our enemies since the commencement of this terrible campaign." The above extract is given exactly as we found it, to the impartial public. The contents of the letter from which it is drawn are of so important a nature, that the strongest proofs of its authenticity can alone warrant our belief. The James Monroe, arrived at Savannah, must have sailed from France on the 11th or 12th of April, to coincide with the date of the 8th of April, Paris, which the letter bears. This is congruous enough. But whether there should not have been other sources, of similar intelligence, to people in America by the same arrival, is another question. We offer it without com-

AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE.

As the birth-day of our liberties as a people, and independence as a nation, is nigh at hand, t would seem to become the occasion that our memories should be revived with the hisory of the important events that led to the establishment of so much good.

This will have the effect of creating in us of major-general, vice gen Harrison. omething of the feelings of our fathers-of nspiring a proper sense of their immortal ex- gadier General M'Arthur has tendered his rertions for our welfare-and of withdrawing signation to the War Department. ur attention from private concerns to a neces vary consideration of those of the public. A o be wished.

A recital of the causes which forced us into independence, will have other goods effects. It will exhibit, in black colours, but true ones, and in horrible deformity, that government, which has at all times-wished to enslave us. It will teach us how to appreciate the British character-for some of us seem not yet to know it. By going back to the days of the revolution and viewing her conduct then—we can compare it with her conduct now—and we will thus discover that Great Britain pursues an other conduct. 3 guns—9 cheers—Hail Columbia. By going back to the days of the revolution thus discover that Great Britain pursues an undeviating course in the path of villainywhich cannot be changed by considerations of nterest or humanity.

In the next GAZETTE, we will publish the DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE, as it which called for a revolution. For the present ve would direct public attention to the followng extract of a letter from John Adams, Esq. and correct statement of the conduct of the British towards our forefathers. This letter was written in Holland, and bears date,

This is a true outline of the conduct of the British to this nation previous to, and during the last war. It is not now brought forth to excite prejudices; but to operate as imparvery superior in workmanship to any imported tial history. For history is mere trash unless we use it to know the character of nations and their rulers. It is time for Americans to be undeceived as to their enemy and to treat as stupid dunces or abandoned impostors those who are continually prating about British religion and British humanity; for if religion and humanity, have any thing of virtue and justice in their composition-a HIGH-WAY ROBBER is just as religious and humane as the British government; as it is by a system of murder and plunder that they both live

"Philadelphia, May 20.
"Permit me to add a sentiment which will no where be taken with more liberality than in Kentucky-that is, I regret that so much importance is attached to the mere etiquette of rank on parade. There is no honor really atpartizans in Kentucky, and but a contemptible tached to it in that station-for the post of minority of them in the United States .- But honor may as well be the centre as either of the flanks-as honor is attached to the place of danger. In this respect the rifle corps would certainly hold the preference—since they are always the first and the last in battle; and in modern war, in which lines have lost much of their consequence, from the more prevailing deralism, or the hypocricy of pretended religion—it is all one; they should be hunted up, serves of corps—the old ideas of honor being attached to a station in a line, has lost the distinction which made it sought in the two last centuries. Columns being now formed on the centre of battalions or regiments, the flanks of regiments necessarily compose the rear of the column; and the centre bears the brunt of the first shock of the charge given or received.

"Corps of militia should direct their attention to discipline their companies, in the marching, facing and wheeling—and the best discip-lined should have the place of honor, if honor is to be attached to place; and it is a monstrous error among militia corps when they forget that it is impossible for them to act in any military operation, even as infantry without discipline, much less to co-operate as infantry, light infantry, riflemen and artillery.

"Permit me to assure you, that all your pains will be thrown away as to military discipline, if the men do not learn first of all how to march well, how to face well, and how to wheel well ;-attempts to manœuvre without these, are ruinous—as they deceive those who
